Joe Biden — A 21st Century Education for Our Kids

“In our global economy, a good education is more vital than ever for our kids to compete. I am working every day to ensure all American children are learning the skills and tools they need to succeed.”

— Senator Joe Biden

A Good Start Matters

Education starts at birth. Biden knows that children who attend preschool start school better prepared and have a better shot at finishing their education and succeeding in life. He supports making two years of high quality pre-school available to all Delawareans and expanding early childhood development programs.

Safe, Quality Schools for All Kids

All children deserve to go to school in a safe, engaging environment. Joe is working to attract and retain quality teachers, fighting to improve No Child Left Behind and working to make class sizes smaller. Biden fought for safer schools, securing funding for school resource officers, and has helped open up schools to kids with disabilities.

Ensuring Kids Are Prepared to Succeed

Joe Biden knows that our schools have to teach the skills that kids need for our changing world. He was a major force behind KIDS 2000, which established public-private partnerships to provide computer centers, teachers and Internet access to young people.

College Access for All

Over the next decade, 2 million qualified high school graduates won't attend college because of costs. Biden is working to change that. In 2007, he worked to pass a bill to commit $20 billion in funding for student aid and benefits. He also introduced a bill that would provide $3,000 to cover all tuition and fees at a two-year college, or half the costs at a four-year college.
